

Lubrizol Achieves Gold Sustainability Rating from EcoVadis

September 10, 2019

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- As an affirmation of its commitment to sustainability, Lubrizol is proud to announce the company recently received a Gold sustainability rating from EcoVadis. EcoVadis is the world's most trusted provider of business sustainability ratings, providing detailed assessments of business' environmental, social and ethical performance.

A Gold rating means Lubrizol scored within the top five percent of more than 55,000 companies rated by EcoVadis and the top two percent of its industry. The company was evaluated on the strengths of its actions and policies relative to Environment, Labor & Human Rights, Ethics and Sustainable Procurement. This is the sixth year Lubrizol was part of the EcoVadis evaluations and has seen a steady increase in its scores every year.

"The EcoVadis scores are an important external validation of our focus on sustainability," says Julie Edgar, Lubrizol's Chief Sustainability Officer. "Lubrizol touches the lives of billions of people every day, and we take our responsibilities to those consumers, our customers, our employees and our communities very seriously."

Lubrizol's commitment to inspiring sustainability that improves lives is fully integrated across the organization. The company's approach includes a broad view of sustainability, including balance among Environmental, Social, Governance and Ethics, and Economic factors, as well as life-cycle thinking to support business strategies.

In addition to its own internal sustainability assessments, the company seeks and incorporates external stakeholder feedback, such as the EcoVadis scores, and applies global trends to identify opportunities in the continued progression of its sustainability strategy and practices.
